GSA Multiple Award Contracts

Contract Number: GS00T03AHD0010

Period of Performance: Through 29 January 2012

The Future of Government IT

Meeting today's business objectives and fulfilling government's vision for the future—that's what federal agencies must achieve through their information technology architecture. But building high-performance, mission-driven IT systems can be challenging. With increased telecommunications network complexity, heightened security requirements, and reduced budgets, it has become harder and harder to implement the long-term vision needed for IT architectures that meet mission demands.

The question today is not "should we?" but "how can we?" Traditional approaches redirect dollars, IT staff, and other valuable resources away from agencies' core mission. How can federal agencies implement IT infrastructures in a way that supports the mission, rather than detracts from it?

Booz Allen Hamilton Can Help You Build Tomorrow's Enterprise Infrastructure Through a Powerful Contract Vehicle: GSA Connections

Simply put, Booz Allen delivers advanced technology solutions that enhance organizational capabilities, improve performance, and ensure cost efficiency—so you can worry less about IT and focus on your mission. With more than 3,000 task orders delivered to our federal clients, we have the experience and insight needed to help you:

- Streamline IT operations. Allowing organizations to focus internal IT staff on strategic mission requirements
- Maximize value. Maximizing the utility of capital investments, identifying cost-effective ways to use new technology, and ensuring deployed infrastructure achieves the expected benefits
- Increase efficiency. Leveraging experienced resources to minimize the time required for acquiring, installing, monitoring, maintaining, and upgrading infrastructure
- Reduce operating costs. Minimizing the training and education expenses necessary for IT workers to stay current and to manage the transition to emerging technologies
