Cost Estimating and Analysis

Optimizing informed decisions

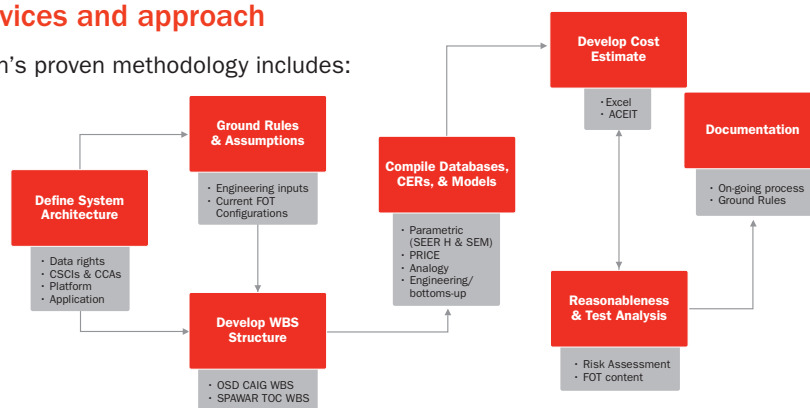

In today's budget-constrained and increasingly risk-averse world, it's not enough to envision and develop a critical or transformational program, you must also articulate its costs. From start to finish, you must know "the numbers" and the design decisions and characteristics that drive them. You must be confident in your cost analysts and their capabilities. You need seasoned analysts—analysts who understand your business and who can work within your engineering, logistics, and management teams to identify every cost and develop accurate results. You need proven experts and cost models.

Booz Allen can help you be ready for what's next Government agencies and program managers depend on Booz Allen Hamilton, a leading strategy and technology consulting firm, for cost analyses. Our analysts work with program managers to define and understand programmatic, technical, and cost baselines for critical programs at all stages of the program lifecycle (concept, development, production, operation, and support). Working side by side with your technical and program management staff, we develop a baseline description of your program, and then validate costs for completeness, accuracy, consistency, and sensitivity to program changes, ensuring a credible, auditable, reasonable, and realistic solution. We use advanced cost estimation and modeling techniques to help decision makers identify cost drivers, mitigate risks, meet funding objectives, and ensure program affordability.
